PROPERTIES

Pandanus Properties is an integrated privately-owned development group, based in Brisbane. It was founded by directors Ryan Maclellan, Andrew Smith and Drene Jamieson: industry professionals with a combined expertise spanning over 80 years.

With local and international experience in town planning and project managing, Ryan's key passion and knowledge are in project delivery from conception through to titling, particularly in the medium density sector in SEQ. He has hundreds of projects under his belt over the last decade. His history also includes management and delivery of large scale land subdivisions, residential unit developments, commercial developments, Government and strategic planning projects.

Andrew also has a track record spanning more than 20 years. His skill set encompasses project management, development management, construction superintendence, contract management, civil construction, project feasibility, cost reporting and budgeting. He also has expertise as a project engineer, project manager, and civil site engineer. His experience in market analysis, marketing, feasibility studies and finance structuring gives him a unique insight into the Brisbane market and buyer expectations.

Drene brings a unique perspective to this dynamic partnership, with a civil engineering/consultancy background that saw him establish a very successful traffic control company. He is a property investor and developer of 40+ years in the local industry.

Full of energy and expertise, Pandanus Properties can effectively manage the entire development cycle, bringing intelligent direction and skilful execution to every project.
